STUDENTS LEARN A VALUABLE LESSON IN GIVING AND SHARING WITH OTHERS

Submitted by Laurie Roach

The children at The Goddard School®, located on E. Germann Road, wanted to help brighten the days of the young patients at the hospital. So, they created colorful and fun socks for them to wear to keep their feet warm when visiting the hospital playroom. Families donated the socks, and the children decorated them with love.

Education Director Laurie Roach previously worked at Phoenix Children's Hospital as a Child Life Coordinator. Therefore, the patients were easily her inspiration for this creative project. Laurie, together with on-site owner Penny Mekhanik, believe teaching children empathy is important, and they were excited to sponsor this fun school activity.
