

LET THE GAMES BEGIN

Photos by Daniel P. Creighton

The 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing begin with pageantry and plenty of fireworks. Find out more on page B6.

The spirit of sportsmanship took over at The Goddard School on High Street today with the Mini-Olympics. Celebrating the beginning of the 2008 Olympic games, the kids competed in egg races, potato sack races, water balloon tosses and more.

At left, Rachel Bozenhard, 4, and McKenna Harris, 4, gently lobbed a water balloon back and forth. With each successful toss, the girls moved a step apart and tried again.

For more photos, see page A4.

The spirit of sportsmanship took over at The Goddard School on High Street today with the Mini-Olympics. Celebrating the beginning of the 2008 Olympic games, the kids competed in egg races, potato sack races, water balloon tosses and more.

Above, Megan Cano, 5, and her classmates cheer on the competitors during an event.

At left, Andrew Harden, 5, and Xander Contros, 5, pass a water balloon back and forth.

Photos by Daniel P. Creighton/
The Mercury