

THE GODDARD SCHOOL STUDENTS LEARN, RELEASE BUTTERFLIES

---

Thursday, May 12, 2011

Preschool students from The Goddard School® located in the Fall Creek Area watch as several of the butterflies fly away after their release May 11. The students received the butterflies in their chrysalis and have watched them grow into butterflies.

Preschool students from The Goddard School located in the Fall Creek area peer into their butterfly habitats they have been working with for weeks. The students received the butterflies in their chrysalis and have watched them grow into butterflies. The students even got the chance to release a few of the butterflies May 11.

The toddler students from The Goddard School located in the Fall Creek area peer into their butterfly habitats they have been working with for weeks. The students received the butterflies in their chrysalis and have watched them grow into butterflies. The students even got the chance to release a few of the butterflies May 11.